Checklist of Bulgarian Helotiaceae (Ascomycetes)

Abstract

Dimitrova, E. G. & Baral, H.-O.: Checklist of Bulgarian Helotiaceae (Ascomycetes). — Fl. Medit. 15: 57-72. 2005. — ISSN 1120-4052.

The present checklist of Bulgarian Helotiaceae includes 67 infrageneric taxa belonging to 20 genera. Their names published in the relevant literature on Bulgarian Helotiaceae are also given. The genus Claussenomyces and four species - Allophylaria byssacea, Calycina italica, Claussenomyces aff. atrovirens and Heyderia pusilla are reported as new to the country. Three new combinations are proposed: Calycina italica, Hymenoscyphus kathiae, Hymenoscyphus monticola.

Introduction

The present paper offers a checklist of 67 infrageneric taxa (64 species, 2 varieties and 1 forma) from 20 genera of Helotiaceae, which have been found so far on the territory of Bulgaria. It comprises correct names of the species, the earlier names under which they are published in the Bulgarian mycological literature, the authors, who have published them, the substrates, on which they have been registered, and their distribution by floristic regions. As a result of revision of about 30 of the specimens of Helotiaceae, deposited in Mycological Collection of the Institute of Botany, Bulgarian Academy of Sciences (SOMF), H. O. Baral established the correct name for several incorrectly determined species. Also one genus, Claussenomyces Kirschst., and 4 species [Allophylaria byssacea (P. Karst.) P. Karst., Calycina italica (Sacc.) Baral, Claussenomyces aff. atrovirens and Heyderia pusilla (Alb. & Schwein.) Link] have been identified as new to Bulgaria (marked by an asterisk in the text).

The first species of Helotiaceae reported from Bulgaria is Chlorociboria aeruginosa (Klika 1926). Later on, Barsakov (1928, 1933) reported 3 species new for the country. Of special significance for the study of that fungus family is the work of Chinkova who, both on her own and as a co-author, has published about 30 species from the mountains of Vitosha, Lozen and Rila (Chinkova 1954, 1955, 1958, 1961, 1965; Chinkova & Alexandrov 1971; Chinkova & Fakirova 1970). Comprehensive research of the species composition, spreading and ecology of discomycetous fungi, and in particular of those from the Helotiaceae family, was carried out by Alexandrov. In a number of papers he reported 26 species of that family, most of them being new for the country (Alexandrov 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971). Vanev & Reid (1986) reported 5 species from the Balkan mountain and the Pirin mountain. Kuthan & Kotlaba (1981, 1988) reported 3 species from the Black Sea coast. Dimitrova (1994a, 1994b, 1995, 1996a, 1996b, 1997a, 1997b, 1997c, 1998a, 1998b, 2000; Fakirova & Dimitrova 1999) has published morphological and chorological data about 30 species of discomycetous fungi from the Helotiaceae family, new for Bulgaria.

Two species - Gremmeniella abietina and Cenangium ferruginosum, have been studied from a phytopathological point of view as diseases of coniferous plants (Zlatanov 1977; Horozov 1988; Rosnev 1988; Rosnev & Petkov 1986).

Material and methods

A study of the species composition, taxonomy and distribution of the Bulgarian Helotiaceae was carried out through a period of 1991-2003. The investigated material comprised personally collected specimens, and revised herbarium specimens from the SOMF. The material was identified in the laboratory of the same institute using routine techniques. A limited amount of species is reported on the basis of literature data, due to the lack of available herbarium samples.

The checklist presents the taxa in alphabetical order. The nomenclature of the hosts and the floristic regions in Bulgaria (Fig. 1) are presented according to Flora of the P. R. Bulgaria. The taxonomic and nomenclature decisions pertaining of the Bulgarian Helotiaceae have been made in conformity with the researches of Baral (in Baral & Krieglsteiner 1985), Cannon & al. (1985), Carpenter (1981), Dennis (1956, 1964, 1978), Kirk & al. (2001), Ližon (1992) and to the Bioscience Database (www.indexfungorum.org).

**Calycina italica (Sacc.) Baral comb. nov.

Basionym: Helotium trabinellum var. italicum Saccardo (as "Helotium italicum"), Sylloge Fungorum 8: 246 (1889).

Phaeohelotium italicum (Sacc.) Dennis, Kew Bull. 25: 355 (1971).

On branches of Prunus sp., [8], 3.10.1991, Dimitrova, det. Baral, SOMF 20 538 (as Belonium subcarneum Schumach., Dimitrova 1994a).

Note: The species was described by Dennis (1956: 107) as "Helotium spec. 1" and later (1971) identified with Saccardo's taxon. C. italica is very common in Central Europe in autumn on corticated twigs of Quercus and Carpinus, and it is not understood why in the literature there appears only one badly described taxon available, of which type material could not even be traced according to Dennis (1971).

On fallen leaves and petioles of Betula pendula Roth, [8], 15.11.1967, Alexandrov, det. Dimitrova, SOMF 6 580.
Note: Verkley (1999: 147) found amyloid asci of the Hymenoscyphus-type in the type material of C. phyllophila, and concluded that this taxon is a member of Hymenoscyphus, perhaps close to H. caudatus. However, a study of the very same type material showed inamyloid asci, and also the other features fully fit to the interpretation of Dennis (1956: 95) and Baral (in Baral & Krieglsteiner 1985).

- Hymenoscyphus kathiae (Korf) Baral comb. nov.
Basionym: Pezoloma kathiae Korf, Mycotaxon 73: 495 (2000).
On rotten wood of Corylus sp., [8], 10.10.1995, Dimitrova, det. Baral, SOMF 22 047 (as Phaeohelotium subcarneum (Schumach.) Dennis, Dimitrova, 1998a). On rotten deciduous branch, [8], 3.10.1991, Dimitrova, det. Baral, SOMF 20 761 (as Hymenoscyphus vernus (Boud.) Dennis, Dimitrova, 1996a). On rotten branch of Pinus (wood), [15], 10.10.1991, Dimitrova, det. Baral, SOMF 21 211 (as Hymenoscyphus cyathiformis (Rehm) O. Kuntze, Dimitrova, 1996b). On rotten branch of Coniferophytina (wood), [15], 22.07.1993, Dimitrova, det. Baral, SOMF 21 324.

Note: Hymenoscyphus kathiae is very close to H. imberbis from which it differs only in the ascospores, containing two large lipid bodies. Both taxa were frequently collected in Central Europe and appear to be distinct at species level. In both a sparse gel on the hyphae at the base of the apothecium with a distinct blue reaction in iodine (IKI or MLZ) was noted in a part of the collections. The presence of gel appears to have been the main reason for placing H. kathiae in Pezoloma Clem.

H. lutescens (Hedw.) W. Phillips

H. menthae (W. Phillips) Baral s. orig. non Baral (in Baral & Krieglsteiner 1985), Hengstmengel (1996)

= H. consobrinus (Boud.) Hengstm.

On dead stems of: Gentiana asclepiadea L., [8], 16.08.1964, Alexandrov, det. Alexandrov & Dimitrova, SOMF 8 436; Rumex alpinus L., [8], 16.08.1969, Alexandrov, det. Alexandrov & Dimitrova, SOMF 8 447. On stems and petioles of Filipendula ulmaria (L.) Maxim., [8], 3.09.1969, Alexandrov, det. Alexandrov & Dimitrova, SOMF 8 419.

Note: According to a study of the type material of H. menthae, this taxon was found to be a synonym of H. consobrinus (Baral ined.), but not conspecific with the current interpretation of H. menthae.

Hymenoscyphus monticola (Berk.) Baral comb. nov.

Basionym: Helotium monticola Berk. in Grevillea 4: 1 (1875)

Phaeohelotium monticola (Berk.) Dennis - Dimitrova 1997a.

On decorticated twigs of Fagus sylvatica L., [8], 3.09.1969, Chinkova, det. Dimitrova & Baral, SOMF 21 657.

Note: The distinction between Hymenoscyphus (with mainly stalked apothecia and heteropolar spores) and Phaeohelotium (with mainly sessile apothecia and homopolar spores) is not possible on the basis of hyaline versus brown ascospores as currently practiced because brown spore walls are not rarely observed in both groups, and this pigmentation consistently occurs only in overmature spores. Thus, fully mature apothecia of H. monticola may be completely devoid of brown spores while overmature apothecia of, f. ex., H. scutula may contain brown spores. Phaeohelotium Kanouse is here considered to be a synonym of Hymenoscyphus Gray since a clear cut against species around P. monticola can hardly be drawn.

Comprehensive check- lists of ascomycetous (Helotiales and Pezizales) and basidiomycetous macrofungi in Bulgaria have been summarized by Assyov & Denchev (2004), Dimitrova & Gyosheva (2008, 2009, Denchev & Assyov (2010) up to 2010. Note.Â The paper contributes to knowledge of Bulgarian fungal diversity on glacial relict vascular plants. Eleven new country records of ascomycetes and anamorphic fungi are presented with descriptions, namely Asteromella silvarum, Cainiella johansonii, Gnomoniella vagans, Hendersonia culmicola, Leptosphaerulina dryadis, Melasmia mougeotii, Phaeosphaeria nardi, Pseudomassaria islandica, Septoria [Show full abstract] macropoda, S. tenella, and Sydowiella dryadis.
