

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF THE PUBLISHED WRITINGS OF OWEN BARFIELD

1917 - 2019

COMPILED BY JANE W. HIPOLITO

Acknowledgments:

Owen Barfield was an astonishingly prolific author. His earliest publication appeared in 1917; the most recent listing in this bibliography is 2019. Barfield wrote on a wide variety of topics in very diverse venues, several of which do not appear in any publication indexes, databases, or other bibliographic resources. Accordingly, discovering what the published writings of Owen Barfield are, as well as tracking down and confirming the publication details, has been a complex process lasting more than a quarter of a century, throughout which I have needed and received much help. There are many people to thank for the 2019 Barfield Bibliography.

G. B. Tennyson warmly invited me to undertake this project in 1980. Many of Barfield's published writings are listed in the pioneering bibliography which Professor Tennyson compiled for the 1976 Festschrift in Barfield's honor, Evolution of Consciousness: Studies in Polarity. I am deeply grateful for Professor Tennyson's trust in me, and for his 1976 bibliography, which has been a major resource for Barfieldian studies.

Owen Barfield immediately supported Professor Tennyson's invitation and provided substantial help, opening up his own files and personally introducing me to the staff of Rudolf Steiner House in London, which holds copies of numerous hard-to-find Barfield publications. From the outset, Thomas Kranidas also has been inexhaustibly helpful and encouraging; I am much indebted to Professor Kranidas for his astute advice and generosity, especially concerning Barfield's little-known imaginative writings.

A great many librarians contributed to the compiling of this bibliography. Indeed, it could not have been completed without their expert assistance. In the 1980s, Nancy Hunter Caudill, Interlibrary Loan Librarian of California State University, Fullerton, resourcefully obtained photocopies for me of several of Owen Barfield's most obscure publications, including almost all of his contributions to the long-defunct English periodical Truth. More recently, four of Ms. Caudill's colleagues in California State University, Fullerton's Pollak Library – Sharon Perry (Special Collections) and Stacy Caron, Kerry Hallas, and Jennifer Otte (Interlibrary Loans), have provided much essential information for this bibliography, with the cheerful, capable support of six student assistants in the Interlibrary Loan Department: Susie Avalos, Babeeta Dhillon, Krishma Dhillon, Hazel Gonzalez, Patricia Guerrero, and Christina Martinez. Beginning in the 1980s, the librarians of Rudolf Steiner House in London have given indispensable help; special thanks are due to Margaret Jonas and David MacGregor for their unfailingly calm, prompt efficiency. I am also grateful to Judith Kiely, Fred Paddock, and Judith Soleil of Rudolf Steiner Library in Ghent, New York, who have worked patiently, knowledgeably, and with consistent good will over the past several years to enable me to solve several particularly complex, intractable bibliographic mysteries involving publication details of Barfield's anthroposophical writings. Christiane Haid, Karin Rohrer, Virginia Sease, and Uwe

Werner gave crucial assistance in tracking down Barfieldiana held in the capacious Archiv of the Goetheanum, Switzerland, as did Richard Betteridge and Philip Mees in locating Barfield publications held in the Rudolf Steiner Library in Los Angeles, California. In addition, this bibliography could not have been completed without the help of the very capable staff of the Marion E. Wade Center of Wheaton College, Illinois, the North American repository of Barfield's writings, and of the Bodleian Library of Oxford University, the English repository of Barfield's writings; I am particularly grateful for the outstanding professionalism and sheer kindness of the Wade Center's Christopher Mitchell, Corey Thomas and Heidi Truty, and of Colin Harris, Oliver House, Victoria Saywell, Julia Wagner, and Rebecca Wall of the Bodleian's Modern Papers Reading Room and Special Collections Reading Room, Catherine Parker, who catalogued the Bodleian's extensive collection of Barfield Papers, and Owen A. Barfield, Trustee of his grandfather's Literary Estate, who granted me access to unpublished materials.

Mark Kimura expertly translated the Japanese-language listings for this bibliography. William Haddad also provided useful information about the Japanese-language items.

Several in the international community of Barfield scholars have been most generous with information and encouragement: Rodica Albu, Simon Blaxland – de Lange, Astrid Diener, Jeffrey Hipolito, Terrence Hipolito, Jeanne Hunter, David Lavery, David-Michael Monasch, Clifford Monks, Rory O'Connor, Elmar Schenkel, and John C. Ulreich, Jr.

The first reproduces the writings that Barfield and Lewis exchanged during their dispute; the second is a history of the event. Both are first-rate contributions to Inklings studies.Â THORSON'S JOY AND POETICI MAGINATION: Understanding C.S. Lewis's "Great War" with Owen Barfield and its Significance for Lewis's Conversion and Writings provides a more accessible treatment of the material than is found in the Inklings Studies Supplement. Thorson provides a rigorous but humanizing account of the story, personalities, and ideas involved-humanizing in the sense that Thorson's presentation of the material in the form of a very good story connects us to Barfield and Lewis as young men. â€| SUBSCRIBE TODAY! Subscribe to Questia and enjoy Barfield was writing for everybody and for all time â€” his core concern was nothing less than the divine destiny of each individual person and of all people collectively. Barfield's immediate relevance is profound; it is to solve the core problem of modern times - which is 'alienation': i.e. the deep sense of meaninglessness, purposelessness, and isolation from people and things.Â If you wish to make a financial contribution to help the work of the Literary Estate, you can do so here.
