A blog about the California Genealogical Society and Library in Oakland, California. Connecting people to their diverse family heritage. Hidden between other volumes is a tiny booklet titled Jewish Pioneers of New Mexico 1821-1917. It is a catalog for an exhibit that opened at the Museum of New Mexico in 2000. One of the featured individuals is Yetta Kohn, Matriarch, rancher and businesswoman. Origins of New Mexico Families is not only aesthetically pleasing but beautifully organized. Origins of New Mexico Families: A Genealogy of the Spanish Colonial Period by Fray Angélico Chávez is beautifully done. It is not only graphically appealing but the care in organizing and presenting the people featured in the book makes it easy to read. The Jewish Genealogical Society of Canada (Toronto) was formally established in 1985. It is now one of seven Jewish genealogical societies in Canada, and is part of the International Association of Jewish Genealogical Societies. MyHeritage has announced that people who have tested with their DNA service, or have updated their results to MyHeritage, will now receive "more accurate DNA Matches; more plentiful matches (about 10x more); fewer false positives; more specific and more accurate relationship estimates; and indications on lower confidence DNA Matches to help focus research efforts."

Use of the historical record search and contributing to the Family Tree require a free registered account. The Family Tree section allows users to collaborate on a single, shared, worldwide family tree. There are over 1 billion individuals in the tree. FamilySearch is currently working with genealogical societies all around the world to index local projects. At the end of 2010, 548 million vital records had been transcribed and made publicly available through the FamilySearch website.[40] In April 2013, FamilySearch Indexing completed their goal to offer 1 billion indexed records online.[41]. Box 55443, Sherman Oaks, CA 91413 JGSLA.ORG - (818) 771-5554 May 2008 Upcoming Meetings May Wednesday, May 21, 2008, 7:30 p.m. (Desert reception at 7:00 pm) Discovering Your Sephardic Ancestors and Their World with Dr. Jeffrey Malka Sephardic Temple Tifereth Israel <http://www.sephardictemple.org> 10500 Wilshire. The 2010 conference will be from July 11-16. The sites claim to have "the largest online genealogical search tool" and promote themselves as the foremost resources for genealogy, but from what we can tell, these sites are nothing more than a series of web pages with links to other services. These sites, in our opinion, are clearly fraudulent.
