

JIM BAEN

Editor and publisher Jim Baen, founder of Baen Books, has died at the age of 62. He suffered a stroke on June 12 and never recovered. Jim Baen was a founding partner of Baen Books, one of the largest independent publishers of popular fiction. Since its inception in 1984, Baen evolved to be one of the leading publishers of science fiction and fantasy. He worked with many other authors who shaped the field of modern science fiction and will be sorely missed.

THE BARBARIC TRIUMPH:

A CRITICAL ANTHOLOGY ON THE WRITINGS OF ROBERT E HOWARD

DON HERRON (Ed)

This title examines all aspects of the life and work of the originator of the sword-and-sorcery fantasy genre and the creator of Conan the Barbarian. Featured are essays by Leo Grin, Edward Waterman, Charles Hoffman, Paul Spencer, Mark Finn, Steven Trout, Lauric Guillaud, Scott Connors, George Knight, Don Herron and more. From the phantoms of Hate simmering beneath Howard's blood-drenched prose to Howard's lifelong interest in philosophy, from Howard's visionary use of the American Frontier Myth to his tales of boxing, this builds on the pioneering research of Herron's previous book on Howard, The Dark Barbarian (Tp $51.95 264pp) and takes it to new levels. FRITZ LEIBER AND H P LOVECRAFT:

WRITERS OF THE DARK

S T JOSHI

While Howard Phillips Lovecraft was closing the final chapter of his writing career, Fritz Reuter Leiber was only beginning to open his own. The year was 1936 and Jonquil Leiber, Fritz's first wife, sent a letter on her own initiative to Lovecraft, knowing that her husband had been an avid admirer of his work, ever since his first reading of The Colour out of Space (Tp $39.95 354pp) and hoping that Lovecraft's presence in Fritz's slow-paced writing career might be the source of inspiration he so dearly needed. Lovecraft replied promptly on 2 Nov that year, the seed of an invigorating correspondence, which lasted till Lovecraft's passing. This title presents Lovecraft's letters to Leiber, an impressive selection of Leiber's fiction which shows Lovecraft's influence and a selection of Leiber's essays on

Lovecraft and matters Lovecraftian. Pb $79.95 328pp

KUSHIEL'S DART

KUSHIEL'S LEGACY #1 (Pb $19.95)

Jacqueline Carey

On the back cover of this book is a quote from the main narrator/character of the tale:

*"When Love cast me out,
it was Cruelty who took pity on me."*

and, regardless of what that might say about me, I was intrigued enough to pick up the book. I wasn't disappointed.

The story is set in an alternate, early Renaissance Europe; primarily in a pseudo-France called Terre d'Ange.

In Terre d'Ange, a land of unsurpassing beauty and grace, considered a paradise on earth by its inhabitants, the art of the courtesan is an honoured profession held sacred by the Court of Night-Blooming Flowers and its thirteen Houses. Into this world is born Phedre, a child who is rejected from the house she's born into because she has a "flaw", a tiny red mote in one eye. Trained in the arts of graceful service she is discovered by nobleman Anafiel Delaunay, who recognizes her flaw for what it is; Kushiell's Dart, which marks her as an anguisette, one who is able to experience pain as pleasure.

She is taken into the Delauney's House where she is trained in politics and court intrigue, as well as the arts of courtesan, which gives her unfettered access to the nobles and powerbrokers of the realm when they are at their most vulnerable. While working as a spy for her Lord she stumbles across a plot that threatens the very foundation of her homeland. Betrayal and treachery sees her exiled into slavery and her loved ones killed, setting her feet on a path of vengeance and retribution that brings into play all of the skills she has been taught.

Carey weaves intricate plots within plots, and sets noble House against House in thrilling political manoeuvres that are truly Machiavellian. She presents a multilayered back story to support the weight of the world she's created with the sure hand of a master wordsmith; each character presented is fleshed out convincingly with their own multifaceted personalities; their loyalties and agenda's giving the reader a book that is truly character driven. There is action and adventure, swordplay and battles, sacrifice and redemption, romance and, given Phedre's role as a courtesan, sex - but to dismiss this book as something in the vein of Laurell K. Hamilton's later work would be to sell it far too short.

Carey shows a skill with the written word that is beautifully elegant and makes her work a joy to read. The sensual prose of her writing calls to mind the works of Tanith Lee and Storm Constantine, and her political machinations would give even George R.R. Martin's characters a run for their money.

I highly recommend this book and it's sequels to lovers of great fantasy epics. - Mark

NEW TITLE

MELUSINE

(Pb $18.95 477pp)

Sarah Monette

Set in the city of Mirador (it feels very European – vaguely Venetian) the story is told from two points of view. The first is Felix Harrowgate, a wizard. He is gay (they use the term 'Molly' and my placenta-addled brain took a while to work that one out) and his lover, Shannon, is a cousin of the head of the Royal family, Steven. He is powerful, sharp of wit and handsome. However, in a very public place, an enemy confronts him with the knowledge that Felix is not of noble birth and was once a prostitute. Within 24 hours, Felix's whole world is unravelled in the most incredible way. He and Shannon fight and Felix returns to Malkar – the wizard that trained him from his very early teens and possessed him in every way, using horrible methods to control him mentally and physically. Malkar has been waiting (he knew Felix would return) for a chance to break the Virtu – the artefact that the city's magic is channelled through (and this also holds the spells that protect it and its citizens). He rapes Felix to harness his (stronger) magic and puts a compulsion on Felix that he can't tell anyone it was Malkar that was responsible (or even deny that it wasn't him). Malkar then flees to a neighbouring land with Felix in tow. They are caught on the way by Stephen and his men and Malkar explains that breaking the Virtu was Felix's work. By this time he's gone insane. Malkar is released and Felix has his magic 'removed' and is put in jail and later an asylum.

The other POV is that of Mildmay Fox, the son of a prostitute whom was sold to a Keeper as a four year old and trained as a thief and later an assassin. He is hired by a young woman named Ginevra to retrieve some jewels that belong to her and, doing so, he crosses paths with what is essentially the voodoo queen of the city, falls for Ginevra and then ends up on the run from the law.

Through a series of events their paths cross. Felix has visions that lead them to believe there is a place where his mind can be healed, if they can just get across alien lands where his magic is seen as heresy. The two characters initially seem to have little to nothing in common, but we soon learn that isn't the case. Felix has periods of lucidity, but spends vast amounts of time 'down the well,' unable to communicate, haunted by horrible nightmares, making it difficult for Mildmay to keep them safe.

I don't know that I'm doing the best job selling this story. The first few chapters of this are uncomfortable to read. Felix's rape is a little graphic (certainly more than I've read before). However, Monette's has the most amazing 'voice'. The city, land and its people were crystal clear in my mind; even if sometimes I felt I had to work some things out for myself (could be the brain thing again though). Felix and Mildmay are fantastic main protagonists. The more time you spend with them, the more committed you are to them. I thought there were a couple of sections of the story that felt a little long, – but damn me if I could say it should have been shortened and I never once contemplated putting it aside. This could be read as a stand-alone, but I have to read the sequel, Virtu (Hb $54 448pp) . I have to know what happens to Felix and Malkar and am hoping that cold revenge is served. Recommended for fans of rich historical fantasies where the story isn't reliant on magic. Well worth the time. - Steph

Space opera, once a derisive term for cheap pulp adventure, has come to mean something more in modern SF - compelling adventure stories told against a broad canvas and written to the highest level of skill. Indeed, it can be argued that the 'new space opera' is one of the defining streams of modern SF. Here is a definitive overview of this subgenre, both as it was in the days of the pulp magazines and as it has become. Included are major works from genre progenitors like Jack Williamson and Leigh Brackett, stylish mid-century voices like Cordwainer Smith and Samuel R Delany, popular favourites like David Drake, Lois McMaster Bujold and Ursula K Le Guin and modern-day pioneers such as Iain M Banks, Steven Baxter, Scott Westerfeld and Charles Stross. BLOOD KNIGHT

 The Kingdoms of Thorn and Bone #3.

The legendary Briar King has awakened, spreading madness and destruction. Half-remembered, poorly understood prophecies seem to point to the young princess Anne Dare, rightful heir to the throne of Crotheny, as the world's only hope. Yet Anne is hunted by the minions of the usurper Robert, whose return from the grave has opened a doorway through which sinister sorceries have poured into the world. Though Anne herself is the conduit of fearsome powers beyond her understanding and control, it is time for girl to become woman, princess to become queen. Anne must stop running and instead march at the head of an army to take back her kingdom, or die trying. Hb $56.00 495pp

THE LIES OF LOCKE LAMORA

 Born with a quick wit and a gift for thieving, Locke Lamora has dodged both death and slavery, only to fall into the hands of an eyeless priest known as Chains, a man who is neither blind nor a priest. A con-artist of extraordinary talent, Chains passes his skills on to his carefully selected 'family' of orphans, a group known as the Gentlemen Bastards. Under his tutelage, Locke grows to lead the Bastards, delightfully pulling off one outrageous confidence game after another. Passing themselves off as petty thieves, the brilliant Locke and his tightly knit band of light-fingered brothers have fooled even the criminal underworld's most feared ruler, Capa Barsavi. But there is someone in the shadows more powerful and more ambitious than Locke has yet imagined. Known as the Gray King, he is slowly killing Capa Barsavi's most trusted men and using Locke as a pawn in his plot to take control of Camorr's underworld. Hb $49.95 499pp

Soldier Son #2. The King's Cavalla Academy has been ravaged by the Speck plague. The disease has decimated the ranks of both cadets and instructors and even the survivors remain sickly. Many have been forced to relinquish their military ambitions and return to their families to face lives of dependency and disappointment. As the Academy infirmary empties, Cadet Nevare Burvelle also prepares to journey home, to attend his brother Rosse's wedding. Far from being a broken man, Nevare is hale and hearty after his convalescence. But his life is about to take a shocking turn, as the magic in his blood roars to life and forces him to recognise that his most dangerous enemy, an enemy that seeks to destroy all he loves, might dwell within him. Although this seems obvious it's always niggling at the back of my mind that I don't like Nevare anywhere near as much as Fitz or the Fool. In this instalment, Hobb manages to give Nevare the personality he lacked in the first book. He has become an anti-hero in the most literal sense of the word and that is a breath of fresh air, despite the frustration it sometimes evokes. ANITA BLAKE, VAMPIRE HUNTER

Omnibus, Books #1 - #3. My name is Anita Blake but Vampires call me the Executioner. Ever since the Supreme Court granted the undead equal rights, most people think vampires are just ordinary folks with fangs. I know better. But now a serial killer is murdering vampires and the most powerful bloodsucker in town wants me to find the killer. Tp $32.95 646pp

DANSE MACABRE

Anita Blake #13. As days pass, Anita's less interested in vampire politics than in an ancient, ordinary dread she shares with women down the ages - she may be pregnant. And, if she is, whether the father is a vampire, a werewolf, or someone else entirely, she knows perfectly well that being a Federal Marshall, known for raising the dead and being a vampire executioner, is no way to bring up a baby... DARK PROTECTOR

Devlin Bane is a member of an ancient band of warriors locked in a centuries-old war against evil. His destiny is to die over and over again to protect mankind from the Others, only to be revived each time by his mortal Handler, currently Dr Laurel Young. But, each time she revives him, he claims a little more of her soul and incites in her desires that grow wilder and wilder. As the war against the Others grows more desperate, Laurel and Devlin can't help but give in to the fierce hunger that's sizzled between them for so long. Now they'll face the ultimate battle together as they join forces to fight an enemy who is closer than they ever imagined... Pb $16.95 322pp

SCOTT NICHOLSON

THE FARM

With a new marriage and a rural lifestyle to embrace, Katy is determined to make the most of this second chance, for her sake and her daughter Jett. Yet things in Solom aren't as simple as they seem, starting with her husband, Gordon, and his strange, secretive family. Jett understands her mother's reasons for dragging them out to the sticks, although it's harder to tolerate her new stepfather, with his weird stories of a blood-drinking scarecrow and a long-gone family member who may have been murdered. But Katy and Jett are about to learn that there's more to this place than even the legends tell. As Katy nurses a growing obsession with Gordon's first wife, Jett senses something very wrong permeating the farm. Something wicked has been growing there, awaiting its master. And with his arrival, a bloody harvest will begin... Pb $16.95 394pp

IN SEARCH OF A DISTANT VOICE

Kazama Tsuneo is an immigration officer in Tokyo, struggling to live a 'normal' life after an event that happened eight years previously, on the other side of the world, in Portland, Oregon. When he is seized one day by a strange emotional fit, his life threatens to spiral out of control. With his arranged marriage looming, his problems worsen following the emergence of a strange voice - a woman who is trying to contact him, but without ever quite revealing herself. Tp $29.95 183pp

What We've Been Reading

Spin State by Chris Moriarty (Pb $16.95). Depending on how you see it, having a bibliographical list containing texts about quantum physics is either manna from heaven or a complete turn-off. Whichever way it is, the author has skilfully woven her substantial knowledge and research of quantum physics into a fast paced neo-noir thriller. After a botched raid on a Syndicate (a rebellious group made up of illegal clones) weapons factory, UN peacekeeper Major Catherine Li is sent to investigate the death of a renowned scientist on the mining colony of Compton's World. Buried beneath the surface is the only source of crystals in the universe, which allows for faster than light travel possible. Li must uncover just what groundbreaking experiment the dead scientist was working on, before the balance of power in the universe is shifted through bloody warfare. This is Moriarty's debut novel and there are parts of the novel which reflect this. However, there are enough solid ideas to attract fans of Richard Morgan to this tough and bleak world, which is continued in the recently released sequel, Spin Control (Tp $27.00). - John

Glasshouse by Charles Stross (Hb $54.00). The premise of the novel is that in a far-future society recovering from a war, several of the combatants have elected to wipe their memories and have enlisted in an experimental recreation of the Dark Ages (circa. 1950-2040). Not surprisingly for Stross, the cause of the war was the future equivalent of a computer virus or more accurately a worm. Despite the technological underpinnings, Glasshouse works better than Stross's previous novels in not overwhelming the reader with jargon. This isn't to say that Glasshouse skimps on extrapolative technologies like Stross's other SF work. These elements are ever present, but there is less reliance on info dumps and when they are used they are enmeshed in the storyline. 9/10 - Adam

Night of Knives (Malazan World) by Ian Cameron Esslemont (Tp $55.00) Fans of Steven Erikson's Malazan series should take heed. This author is most definitely the co-creator of the world that, until now, was only available with Erikson's name on the cover. READ THIS BOOK!! Esslemont has a style that is very similar to Erikson and the tale he tells is skilfully done. It is set in Malaz City all during the night that Kellanved and Dancer become Ascended. Lots of quirky characters and 'real' dialogue. 9/10 - Adam

Dream Makers Magic (Safe Keepers Secret #3). by Sharon Shinn (Hb $37.00). I'm assuming this is the last in the series - although I'd love to be proven wrong. These lovely stories. They're only marginally genre and they're the sort of thing that you'll bowl over in no time at all - but I suspect these could become comfort books to go back to on a rainy day when you feel like visiting an old friend. - Steph

Stolen Child by Keith Donohue (Tp $32.95). This is quite a different version of the well known changeling baby story. The story switches between the child that was taken away and raised with a 'family' of changelings and the changeling that takes his place. For reasons explained they're all around age seven - and so long as they aren't with a human family they stay this age. As a mum of a little lad there were bits of this that were a little... I guess unsettling is the best word - to read. It was just a little too close to home. It didn't have the ending I expected and I still don't know if this is a good or bad thing. - Steph
