African Americans launched their literature in North America during the second half of the 18th century, joining the war of words between England and its rebellious colonies with a special sense of mission. Through essays, poetry, and fiction as well as more conventional journalism, African American newspapers, inaugurated by Freedom's Journal in 1827, extolled the achievements of black people worldwide while lobbying persistently for an end to slavery.

Chat with us now. New Arrivals Â· African-American Fiction. August 8, 2019. These titles were recently added to the collection of the Public Library of Cincinnati and Hamilton County.Â In this bravura follow-up to the Pulitzer Prize, and National Book Award-winning The Underground Railroad, Colson Whitehead brilliantly dramatizes another strand of American history through the story of two boys sentenced to a hellish reform school in Jim Crow-era Florida.
